Press Release

Redline Selected by Omni Serv to Provide Aviation Security Training and Testing at Leeds Bradford International Airport

Redline Aviation Security Ltd (RAS) has been selected by Omni Serv Limited (Omni Serv), the new aviation security provider at Leeds Bradford International Airport (LBIA), to provide all of its security training and testing in support of its contract at the airport.

Omni Serv recently won the contract to provide aviation security at the airport and the contract commenced on 1st March 2009.

The competition to provide LBIA with all its' security functions was contested by every major aviation security provider in the country. Redline introduced an innovative and forward thinking proposition to Omni Serv. The model is based on Redline's own management structure and engenders a culture of openness and honesty which means a much stronger and healthier aviation security regime.

Redline and Omni Serv have embarked on an intensive training programme designed to up-skill everyone with a responsibility for security at the airport, from the security officers on the floor to the Board of Directors. The bulk of the training will take place at The National Aviation Academy, Robin Hood Airport, which is the home of RAS.

Paul Mason, Managing Director RAS told us "the whole team at Redline is delighted to be teamed with Omni Serv in providing LBIA with a high quality training and testing service and we look forward to seeing the team at the airport grow and develop under this training programme"

The Managing Director of Omni Serv, Ian Thornley said "we are proud to have been entrusted by one of the country's leading regional airports to provide its' aviation security cover and we have backed that trust up by linking with the UK's leading aviation security training and testing consultancy."
