

BEHAVIOUR DETECTION SOLUTIONS

ABOUT THE COURSE

The indiscriminate nature of never knowing when a terrorist incident will happen, where it will happen or what the intended target will be, means it could literally be anywhere and at any time. Whatever the intended target is, it will probably involve a dense crowd in which to maximise the effect and its publicity.

Barriers may stop a vehicle but what about the terrorist on foot, concealing an automatic firearm or an Improvised Explosive Device (IED) under a coat or in a bag or backpack? Putting airport-style screening at the entrance to airports simply pushes the threat back to that area of the airport. It's also impractical to put airport-style screening in place for major events and public gatherings, so what other options do you have?
